GTS is featured in the Official Mining In Africa Country Investment Guide 2015

GTS is greatly honoured for the opportunity they have been granted by MACIG to share their experience and expertise as well as represent Botswana's mining investment potential. Based in a country that prides itself with minerals especially diamonds, GTS has a profound understanding of the development and investment imperatives in the mining industry for Botswana and indeed Africa. Mineral Processing & Operations Management Director, Mr Rodgers Thusi addresses the state of mining in Botswana. This covered a number of aspects pertaining to Botswana mining particularly, Infrastructure, service providers, equipment, skilled Labour and Training which are key enablers for the sustained growth of the industry in the country. He goes on to point out some of the untapped areas for which he feels that if they could be fully harnessed the industry will be able to create employment opportunities for the citizens of Botswana.

When describing the power and water situation in the country for his part he had this to say, " Botswana is a flat country thus the collection and storage of runoff water is a challenge. The mining industry is therefore forced to resort to underground water of which poses significant environmental problems since underground water is a non renewable natural resource".

HAPPY LABOUR DAY

"It is labour indeed that makes a difference in everything "

Mining being one of the world's most dangerous occupations, the mine workers deserve double credit for their immense endurance. In the late nineteenth century, the working class was in constant struggle to gain the 8-hour work day. Working conditions were extremely poor, working hours as long as 16 per day and wages were at best meager. "May 1st is in celebration of the hard struggles the workers endured and the victories they won". Even when we celebrate this victory we remain painfully aware that there are still workers today who toil under repressive conditions, with hardly any of the rights internationally proclaimed for workers the world over. It remains the responsibility of the free worker, enjoying the May Day rights, to support those of his fellow workers who are left behind.

GTS believes that the primary goal of a business is to create wealth for itself but also to lift the livelihoods of its workers and the community in which it operates. We believe that the profit motive is only there to ensure that the business continues to meet the needs of its owners, it workers and the community. This then is the basis for sustainable development. We at GTS continue to recognise the efforts of our employees by promoting a safe work environment and an enjoyable work experience.

Among some of the principles underlying our relationships are "safety first", "good practice", "human dignity and respect" "regulatory and legal compliance". We therefore urge the industrial community at large to conform to the norm by fighting against repression of workers rights.
